*Mary and Steve, I did not know your son, except for this: I knew his huge and precious heart. How so, you ask? Well I know his parents.. . His parents are soulful, beautiful people in love with humanity....he chose his parents so very wisely. He had the kind of parents that love and hope and believe in goodness.....parents that embody God's love in their service to family....in their service to all God's children.... How fortunate you have been to take this precious, precious boya boy created in the place where love began, and fill him so very full of that deep, transformative love!!!! The world is better because you loved him so deeply.... may you find the space in your soul where you can see him now in the beauty of a sunrise and hear him in the laughter of a child. May God surround you with proof of the magic that love creates.....like sweet laughter in the midst of grief, and powerful connection as you continue your mission of fierce love..... may you continue to honor the precious gift of this precious child as you surrender over and over again the Master's love to humanity. May you walk in reverence and peace in the knowing that you took His sacred gift to you and honored it and elevated it in every possible way until it was time to return that precious gift..with humility and deep, sacred surrender.
My deepest love to you both.*
