“ Two things that stand out in my memory of Elayne - her driving and her fortitude.

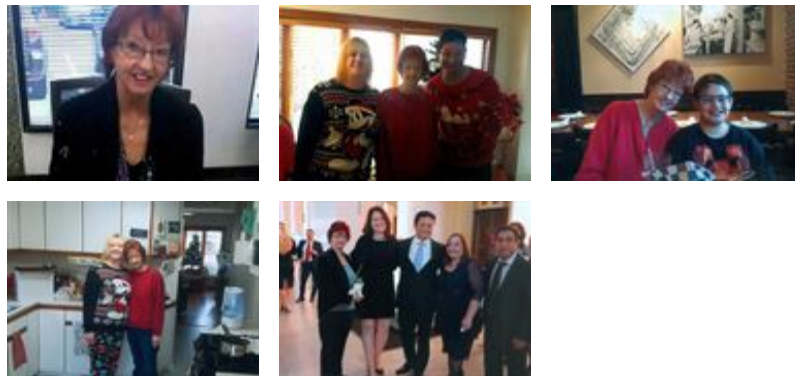

We worked together at Viscosity Oil from 1983 to 1994. In the early years her daily commute would seem to have been pretty simple to most people, but not so much for Elayne. She was no fan of traffic and even Archer Ave from Garfield Ridge to Brighton Park posed challenges. That became a big issue in 1992 when the office moved to Woodridge. Fortunately, Elayne overcame her substantial fears and found a way to adapt to that greater challenge.

Elayne's relationship with Viscosity Oil's customers was probably one of the key factors to its success and longevity, which was severely threatened in early 1985. She knew what (and who) were truly most important. I recall her standing up to senior management on multiple occasions for what was best for both the customer and the company, short and long term. She understood and practiced that obedience came second to integrity, even when it was incredibly uncomfortable. She had a unique role and was clearly the best person for the position.

“ I only knew Elaine for a short time, when we worked together. I was lucky to get to know her. I really enjoyed work a lot more when she was there. We had the same sense of humor. We also had the same love for dogs. The world is truly less of a place without her.
