“ You were there, My only family. Then you were gone, but never forgotten. Then you came back with a new wife and a new life far away in Chicago. Then I got to know you and recognize all the things in me that we shared, and I found my family again. Now, you're gone again ... but never forgotten. Your loving heart lives on in all of those people you held dear ... and now we will carry on your spirit and be there for each other. Thank you for the gift of family and connection that you found and cultivated with your second life. RIP Dad. Your work is done. Fly high and soar over the rainbow bridge, and start planting the seeds of our third life together. Always and forever, DLG (Daddy's little girl)
